

San Francisco's Neighborhoods

One of the most wonderful aspects of San Francisco is the genuine diversity, community cohesiveness, and charm of its many neighborhoods. As is true of New York, Paris, and other great metropolises of the world, San Francisco truly is "a city of neighborhoods."

Not surprisingly then, San Francisco Beautiful has a strong commitment to supporting the city's neighborhoods, including a special annual beautification award – The Robert Frieze Award for Neighborhood Conservation.

Below is a map of the neighborhoods used in organizing the maps and descriptions of SFB's grants and beautification awards from 1998 to 2005 (accessed by clicking one of the inventory's other menu options).

SFB's neighborhood designations are only one of many. Below are set of click-able links to other Web sites containing enlightening characterizations, photos, boundaries, and so on for the City's dozens of neighborhoods.
