This series of geometric illustrations was created to show a sample of the diversity that exists in the Bay Area. The name is derived from the seven by seven square miles of the City, and the 7 most common languages spoken throughout the Bay Area. Many pieces have loud bright colors that contrast the subjects, which often are withdrawn and meditative. Check out www.DonavonBrutus.com for more.

Traffic

Woman warrior when stuck in traffic sings love songs, screams, screeches her wheels across the lost metropolis puts locks on certain memories to survive. She has nothing to say to you
she has everything
to say to you
she sees you in the next car—forehead pressed to the steering wheel stereo blaring sweeping your mind with your eyeballs.
You’re a full-blown adult now—blind as a hubcap to the unseen world.

Love Poem Three Autumns Later

In East Oakland, in my temporary flat, I wash your empty plant pot at the kitchen sink.
In the dirt, loosened from the crevices, tiny flecks of sand—the same slant of auburn as the pot—I gather and carry them to the lake.
The water is still. The sky drifts to the left where memory lives.
Forty years a swamp, I say, opening my palm.

Thich Nhat Hanh I Step With You

step breathe
step breathe

—peace flickers at the end of the flame you sit you speak one word yet the word is impossible rice brown and eggplant soup green violet your mind still for peace decade upon decade bowing speaking lifting the dead from your shoulders our hands this is how you walk — one step we walk with you one step there a breath as you go as we go

Relief

We know it is close to something lofty.
Simply getting over being sick or finding lost property has in it the leap, the purge, the quick humility of witnessing a birth—how love seeps up and retakes the earth. There is a dreamy wading feeling to your walk inside the current of restored riches, clocks set back, disasters averted.
